OHIOPOLE.

Notes from the Little Mountain Resort Up the Yough.

Ohiopole, August 2.—The Misses Myrtle Moon, Effie Ritenour and Mr. Frank Bailey were visiting friends in Mill Run Sunday.

Joseph Westcott of McKeesport, was visiting relatives in our metropolis on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Glatfelter and two children, spent Saturday evening with the former's mother, Mrs. Wm. Glatfelter.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Bruner, who have been on a honeymoon tour through Pennsylvania for the past five weeks returned to the latter's home at this place Saturday evening on train No. 18 to spend a few weeks.

Measrs. Thomas Johnson, Abraham Shylark, John Thompson, Robert Lincoln, William Tucker and Samuel Slinger were Pittsburgers visiting friends in our beautiful little burg on Sunday.

Read the Daily Courier. Tomorrow afternoon at 2 P. M. one of the greatest ball games of the season will be played on the Ohiopole ball grounds between the married and single men of our metropolis. This will be one of the most interesting games played here this season, as both teams are about evenly matched, although the married men have the advantage in size, but this does not worry the single men any. It is thought that the lineup will be about as follows:

Married, Stuck rt, Boyd cl, Conway J, Giles 3b, Rush 2b, Glatfelter 1b, J. Moon ss, Bruner p, W. Jackson c, Single, Bailey rf, E. Jackson cf, Kerr 1f, Holt, 3b, Morrison 2b, Chuck 1b, Nicholson ss, Rafferty p, Moon c.

Ladies will be admitted free, but an admission of 10 cents will be charged to men. Proceeds for benefit of O. P. A. C. Don't fail to be present at the best and most interesting game of the season. Turn out and help the club along. Game begins at near 2 P. M. as possible.

Rev. Charles E. Rockwell of Dawson delivered an eloquent sermon in the Baptist Church Sunday evening. He took for his text the 35th and 36th verses of the 4th chapter of John. Through a mistake it was stated in Saturday's Courier that he would preach Sunday morning at 11 A. M., which should have been 7:30 Sunday evening.

Epworth League services were held as usual Sunday evening in the M. E. Church, J. Stark being leader.

Thomas Gaddis of Dunbar spent Saturday and Sunday with friends at this place.

Eugene Cartwright of Scottdale spent Sunday with relatives at this place.

Arthur Bailey of Connellville spent Sunday with friends here.

The strong Bidwell-Wig Corner team, strengthened by players from Masontown, Allegheny and Pittsburg, came to Ohiopole Saturday confident of victory, but sad to relate they went down to defeat before the invincible O. P. A. C.'s by the one-sided score of 22 to 0. They simply were not in it, getting only three hits and only getting one man as far as third base and that not until the eighth inning. The score per inning was as follows:

O. P. A. C. 0 2 4 0 8 3 13 —32
B. W. C. 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 —0

The O. P. A. C.'s are now playing fine ball, having won the last four games played. Two base hits, Boyd, Rafferty; three base hits, Rafferty; strikeouts by Burnworth, 2; by Stewart, 2; by Rafferty, 19. Batteries, O. P. A. C., Rafferty, W. Jackson; Bidwell-Wig Corner, Burnworth, Stewart, Sangston, Gordon and Junker. Time two hours. The O. P. A. C.'s would like games away from home. Any teams wishing games should address J. L. Kerr, manager, Ohiopole.

The Norwood Outing Club of Pittsburg are camping with us for a few weeks.

Othy Warrick, a well-known citizen of this place, unconsciously came in contact with a large yellow jacket's nest shortly before noon yesterday and was badly punctured by the bees, who gallantly resisted the intrusion. Into their peaceful home. In the fracas Warrick secured a club and being bewildered by the bees' assault, he mistook his left ear for a yellow jacket and delivered it a terrific blow. The result is that he now has a very sore ear, having made a considerable gash in it with the club. He will probably know the difference the next time.

Remember the ball game tomorrow afternoon at 2 P. M. Admission only 10 cents.

SMITHFIELD.

The Day's News Events in Fayette's Baby Borough.

Smithfield, August 1.—Carmichael's auction from Smithfield Saturday, the 29th, at Carmichael's, by a score of 7 to 4. It was the finest game ever put up by either team. The game stood one to a thing in favor of the Smithfield's in the seventh inning, when Carmichael batted a ball which umpire Luce decided was a fair. This gave them two scores. This came near breaking up the game in a row on the outside of the ropes. As it was it stopped the game for perhaps twenty minutes. Some of the Carmichael men lowered the good opinion our people had of them when they were here by leaving the diamond and inciting the mob. To the credit of the Smithfield club we said, they never left their places during the disturbance. Smithfield turned out an enthusiastic crowd of rooters. There were four times as many there as Carmichael's had here. This makes a game a piece for the teams, the fourth game will be played at Cycle Park in Uniontown at a time not yet fixed. There were only two errors, one by each team, and two strike outs. Quernston and Bergman.

DEMOCRATIC DREAMS.

Parker is patting Tammany on the back. Tammany is going to be "regular," so is William J. Bryan; but the managers of Parker's campaign realize that it requires a great deal of energy and enthusiasm as well as "regularity" to win a Democratic victory in this Republican country, and the Democrats haven't any of these this year. Their talk of success is the vainest vision that ever flitted through the castle-building imagination of a dreaming Democrat.

Let us come down to earth and look at the situation fairly and squarely and dispassionately.

Bryan has announced that he will vote for Parker, but he has been assiduously and earnestly explaining to his Free Silver constituency why they should vote against him. He is going to be "regular," but he is going to see that whatever influence he possesses shall be exercised in the direction of defeating the Gold Democrats and putting himself at the head of the Democratic party again in 1908.

It is admitted that the bulk of the rank-and-file of the party are Silver Democrats, in fact Bryan Democrats. This fact was fully demonstrated at St. Louis. The bosses and the bar's of the party had been active against Bryan for several months before the convention met. It had been determined to wipe him off the political map. His "issues" were regarded as dead and himself as a disturber of the peace and a violent obstructionist. Up to the very day of the convention, they thought they had him beaten, but his magnetic presence and impassioned oratory rallied his bought-and-bullied friends back to him, and forced the Parker leaders to permit him a center place on the stage.

Bryan's friends understand his words. There will be no Democratic States in the West this fall. Admitting all the other claims of the wildest Parker enthusiast, Roosevelt will have a score of electoral votes more than are necessary to make him President again.

PATTISON.

The death of Robert Emory Pattison removes one of the prominent Democratic figures in State and National politics. He was twice elected Governor of Pennsylvania and was the only Democratic Governor chosen since the Civil War. His strong personal character was the principal factor in

THE TIN MILLS.

The tin plate situation is improving with the general betterment of the iron and steel trades situation and the gradually increasing prosperity of the country, and we may reasonably hope for an early resumption of work at the South Connellville mill.

We all unite in the hope that the mill will resume immediately. The optimistic Uniontown Genius and the credulous Connellville News hope so because they will then have an opportunity of giving Parker and Davis the credit for starting it. After the election that opportunity will not, of course, be presentable.

The balance of us want it started because we want to see our neighbors prosper.

CARNIVALS AND CIRCUSES.

The Connellville merchants are asking themselves the question, Do street carnivals pay?

Street carnivals are like circuses. They pay themselves much and the town little. They take away cartloads of money where they spend a few pence. They always create a serious deficit.

But the authorities cannot prevent them from coming, and the merchants cannot prevent the public from going.

There is but one way in which the situation may be somewhat alleviated and that is by making all such entertainments pay a license high enough to enable the community to in some manner recoup for these pecuniary raids upon its cash reserve.

Parker is raising a row. He is entertaining the East, well knowing that the corn whisky of Kentucky will keep the South in line.

There seems to be some bad men counting the country since within the shadow of the court house. One may well ask, in the light of recent events in Fayette and surrounding counties whether in some cases at least the punishment fits the crime.

John Holland, the suburban boat man, thinks he has a successful flying machine. If so, he will have earned the distinction of being the first human flying man.

The New Haven School Board are business people. When they are told that they don't know, they don't know. When they are told that they don't know, they don't know. When they are told that they don't know, they don't know.

The Southern Declaration of Independence is a masterpiece of plagiarism. It is a copy of the Declaration of Independence of the United States, with a few words changed to make it sound more "southern."

OUR DOOM.

Professor Goldwin Smith of Toronto, Canada, has turned prophet, and informs a startled world that the United States is "slamming toward its doom." Its "doom" is the same as the Mother Country's, which Kipling has called "the white man's burden." It may be that it will be part of our "burden" to annex Canada. She is too far away from home, and she is naturally a portion of this country. If so, be it a portion of our doom, we will meet it steadily and try to stagger under the burden of it including such heavyweights as the speculative Professor Goldwin Smith.

THE CENTER OF THE B. & O.

Pittsburg's cordial invitation to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, to make that city its headquarters, is not a spectacular stage play, but an offer made in good faith by the marshals of millions and the expatriates of industry of what promises are long to be the chief commercial city of the Union; and the offer is likely to receive the company's earnest consideration, because it is based on good business considerations.

Pittsburg is not only the geographical center of the Baltimore & Ohio system, but it is also the business center. Baltimore, the present headquarters, is at one end of the line; Chicago is at the other. Neither location is a proper one for operating the system. The right spot on the map is at the "Forks of the Ohio."

The Pittsburg business men, however, must be prepared to back up their offer with material evidences of its hospitality in the shape of proper concessions from the people and the city government, necessary to make the way of the Baltimore & Ohio smooth and easy into the city and through it; in other words, they should see to it that the company is neither robbed by rights-of-way owners, nor "held up" by the City Council.

NAPOLEON, As Seen by His Associates

MARRIAGE, QUARRELS AND DIVORCE

(Copyright, 1904, by G. L. Kilmer.)

XXIII.
NAPOLEON first learned of the widow Josephine de Beauharnais when she called to thank him in person for restoring to her son Eugene the sword of his father, who had perished by the guillotine. She was attractive, and he took the opportunity to secure a closer intimacy. His advances were welcome, as may be judged by the following note penned by Josephine to General Bonaparte shortly after the first meeting:

You no longer come to see a friend who loves you. You have altogether neglected her. You are wrong, for she is deeply attached to you.
Come tomorrow to luncheon with me. I want to see you and to talk to you about your interests.
Good night, my friend. I embrace you.
WIDOW BEAUHARNAIS.

Napoleon responded to the invitation to take luncheon with Josephine, and says Marshal Marmont in his memoirs, "he fell in love with her in the fullest sense of the word. He was twenty-six, she more than thirty-two. Although she had lost all her freshness, she discovered how to please him."
Napoleon's passion for the Creole widow, whose life had been filled with adventure, called forth less comment at the time of it than afterward, when the incongruity of the match became apparent. His family disapproved. All Paris was in a ferment over the ever changing scenes, and Napoleon's conquest of the sections, marriage and depolon's eyes, says Joseph Bonaparte, and he exclaimed to his friend and secretary, Bourrienne: "Josephine to have thus deceived me! Wee to them! I will exterminate the whole tribe of fops and puppies. As for her, divorce—a public, overwhelming divorce."

Again in France, Napoleon refused for three days to see Josephine, but on the advice of friends, out of regard for Josephine's children, Eugene and Hortense, he again forgave all and never afterward mentioned her conduct in Italy or at Malmaison.

Ten years after this rupture the divorce took place. Meanwhile the union had proved childless. Napoleon was made hereditary emperor, and Josephine was crowned empress. Napoleon's minister of police, Fouché, claims to have broached the subject of divorce to Josephine in the interest of Napoleon on the plea that France desired an heir born to the throne. Napoleon repudiated Fouché's action. About this time (1807) Napoleon had prepared for him a list of marriageable princesses in Europe, beginning with Maria Louisa of Austria. The list includes a sister of Denmark, Saxony, Bavaria, Spain, Hesse Cassel and Portugal. The agitation for a hereditary crown and an heir was a factor in Josephine's unpopularity from the time of the coronation in 1804 until the crisis in 1809.

"He will divorce me in order to have children," she said in 1804.

NAPOLEON AND THE KING OF ROMÉ, NAPOLEON II.

parture to command the French army in Italy all took place within the space of six months.
After a honeymoon of two days Napoleon set out for Italy and wrote all most daily letters filled with love and a longing that his wife join him in Italy. Josephine sent no responses to her husband's passionate letters and invented various excuses for not joining him. To a friend who asked about her sudden marriage and her young husband she said carelessly, "I believe Bonaparte to be a very brave man."

Napoleon said at St. Helena that he had possibly loved Josephine "a little." He thought the marriage would give him good standing in French society because she belonged to a good house, to the old regime and the new. In short, the marriage would make a Frenchman of him, a born Corsican.
Finally, after many excuses on her part and much pleading in Napoleon's letters, Josephine went to Milan, and her husband hastened there, only to find her absent at Genoa. He chided her gently, but in terms which showed a keen disappointment.
It soon came to the ears of Napoleon that Josephine had turned her interest upon a young officer in the suit of General Leclerc, one Hippolyte Charles, "a man of the kind who is most dangerous to a woman who is bored or does not love her husband." In due time Charles was "banished from the army of Italy by order of the commander in chief."

Josephine, on her part, had no difficulty in softening the wrath of Napoleon. Mr. Frederic Masson, who has made a profound study of Napoleon's personality, held that, since Napoleon loved Josephine, the only thing to do was to take her back without reproaches. This view is attributed to the oriental element in his nature.
But during the separation which followed the Genoa incident Napoleon's letters changed tone. He wrote more reasons why Josephine could not join him. At the end of the Italian campaign Napoleon and Josephine were reunited in Paris. During the winter of 1807-08 the conqueror of Italy was the greatest figure in France, and Josephine shared the honors.
In April, 1808, Napoleon sailed for Egypt. Josephine says she asked to go with him, but he represented it as impossible to take a woman on an enterprise so perilous. M. Charles now appeared in Paris. Josephine's influence secured him a partnership in a mercantile house, where he made a fortune. Living in a retired country house at Malmaison, near Paris, Josephine was guilty of indiscretions which alarmed friends and furnished weapons for enemies.

From Cairo Napoleon wrote to his brother Joseph in Paris: "Look after my wife; see her sometimes. I beg Louis [another brother] to give her good advice."
Soon "the veil was lifted" from Na-

"No, it is beyond me," said Napoleon. "I have the heart of a man."
The first signs of the impending divorce which alarmed Josephine appeared in 1809, after the Austrian campaign. "An unaccustomed coldness," says Malmou, the secretary, "the closing of the doors between their apartments, the shortness of the rare moments the emperor devoted to his wife, certain passing outbursts provoked by the most trifling causes, the arrival in turn of allied sovereigns whose presence she was not able to understand, inspired the empress with the keenest anxiety."

The scenes between husband and wife at the time of breaking the news to Josephine and the formal separation are described as pathetic in the extreme. Eugene de Beauharnais, Josephine's son, declared in a speech before the senate when the divorce was officially announced, "The tears from the emperor suffice for my mother's glory." By virtue of the decree Josephine preserved the title of empress, with a crown and an annual allowance of $300,000.

Prince Metternich, the Austrian minister, says that the divorced empress Josephine and her daughter Hortense, queen of Holland, made the overtures to Mme. Metternich which led to Napoleon's espousal of the Austrian princess Marie Louise. When Napoleon II, king of Rome, was born, Josephine asked to see the long awaited heir, and he was taken several times to Malmaison.

White Shoe Newspapers.
Almost every fashionable foot in Newport is dressed in white shoes this summer, and both men and women have foregone tan and black footgear, says the New York Press. The women are wearing slippers of fine white kid with high heels and a broad tongue. The men's shoes are buckskin, and on account of their athletic use they are usually light shoes. Mrs. T. Shaw says she wears some unusual white buckles with her white kid slippers. She says they were used in the days of George II. and that she picked them up in London. Both men and women wear white silk hosiery, and some of the men go in for costly embroidered effects. James Brett Stokes, who dresses always with a certain picturesque, has been wearing calfskin, but on the upper part of the boot the hair on the hide showed. "Unshaved shoes" is what one person called these hairy boots of Stokes.

PACKERS ARE BUSY.

Secure Additional Skilled Labor and Output Is Increased.

BIG SHIPMENTS OF LIVESTOCK

It Is Thought That the End of Big Strike Is in Sight—Many Union Men Are Returning to Work in the Different Plants.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—This was a busy day with the packers. With increased forces of skilled workers and the operating departments more thoroughly equipped than at any time since the beginning of the strike, the employers took a firm grip on the machinery of their affairs and as a result the stock yards took on the old hum of activity to a great extent. More than 75,000 head of live stock was received this is an increase of 20,000 head over the receipts on the corresponding day last week. Such an enormous amount of live stock would under normal conditions have had a depressing effect on the market and when the trainloads of animals began to pour into the yards stockmen and traders feared a panic but it did not occur. Prices were lowered sharply but the fact that the market held so well as it did seemed to prove that the packers are prepared to increase their output.

The big packers bought 5,000 cattle, 13,000 hogs and 10,000 sheep during the day. Before nightfall 80 per cent of these purchases had been slaughtered. Further proof of the seriousness of the strike are the difficulties of the strike are being overcome. The fact that the shipment of 500 carloads of fresh meats from the stockyards. Of this number 400 cars were loaded and shipped by the firms affected by the strike. These shipments were consigned to all parts of the world, 80 carloads being shipped to Boston for export. These shipments followed 250 carloads of meat sent out by the packers on Saturday and represent only a part of the business that is going on in spite of the strike. As near as could be estimated 259 union men of the various trades on strike returned to work during the day. Of this number who abandoned the fight many were skilled workers. The packers say these desertions make the total number of strikers who have returned to work 2,000.

Return to Their Positions.
Chief of Police O'Neill declares his belief that peace in the strike is in sight and that by Thursday great changes will be seen tending toward a peaceful end. From what I learned many of the men who went out in a sympathetic strike are returning to their positions in the packing plants, he said.

There were several disturbances during the day but the police experienced little difficulty in restoring order. The crowds usually seen at the entrance to the yards were not in evidence and wagons carrying meat passed through the streets with the drivers unmolested. When the meat breakers left the plants no attacks were made on the non-union men. Saloon fights between union and non-union men were frequent. During these quarrels one man was shot and another stabbed, but neither was seriously injured.

A fight in which a squad of police summoned by a riot call had to use their clubs against a crowd of strike sympathizers occurred in an alley near the yards. The police won the day and took into custody two of the men who had beaten George Guschel, a strikebreaker so badly that his life is despaired of. The crowd hurled stones and sticks at the policemen when the two members of the mob were arrested, but none of the police were hurt.

Child Labor Employed.
It is declared by the strike leaders that hundreds of children under legal age are employed by the packers. It is admitted that the action of the state factory inspector was the result of information first given by Michael Donnelly who reported results of his own investigation. It is said that warrants will be taken out for other packing house officials besides Superintendent Harris of Neilson Morris & Co.

St. Louis, Aug. 2.—Michael J. Donnelly, president of the Amalgamated Butcher Workmen and Meat Cutters of North America arrived in St. Louis and spoke to a large mass meeting of strikers. When asked if the strike was broken as the packers assert President Donnelly said: "The cause of the strike is stronger right now than it ever has been for the reason that the men are now determined and are getting the affair on a systematic basis. The struggle has just begun and the men are ready for a long fight. With 99 per cent of the experienced butchers of the country in the union the state men that the strike is lost is ridiculous."

Kansas City, Aug. 2.—Developments in the butchers strike were serious from the standpoint of the strikers as hundreds of strikers returned to work many of them being skilled workmen. The serious break in the ranks of the strikers was caused by their growing tired of waiting for strike benefit money promised from Chicago and because they could not afford to remain idle longer without pay. Few of the men who applied for work were refused their old prices and those who were not taken back were assured that they would be reemployed when became necessary for the packers to increase their forces. All talk of a sympathetic strike seems to have ceased.

Bellefonte, Pa., Aug. 2.—Judge Poole of the circuit court refused to grant the appeal of the striking packhouse employees to discontinue the injunction granted in behalf of the East St. Louis packers restaining the strikers from interfering with the operation of the plants and men employed thereon. The injunction stands as originally granted until further action of the court.

PATTISON IS DEAD

Former Governor of Pennsylvania Succumbs to Pneumonia

Philadelphia, Aug. 2.—Robert D. Pattison, who was twice Democratic governor of Pennsylvania and twice controller of Philadelphia is dead at his home in Overbrook, a suburb of this city. Pneumonia, complicated with a weakness of the heart was the cause of death. He was 63 years old. Mr. Pattison was a candidate for governor on the Democratic ticket against Governor Pennypacker in 1902 and had not been a well man since his laborious campaign in that year when his tour of several weeks covered nearly every county in the state. He was a member of the committee on resolutions of the Democratic convention at St. Louis and his health failed under the strain. He returned to St. Louis in 1903 after the convention to rest and returning home resumed his business, dividing his time between this city and New York.

Last Friday pneumonia developed and heart complications aggravated Mr. Pattison's illness. Sad symptoms were present for a few days and he died quietly at 6 o'clock.

A Democrat of the old school, Robert D. Pattison bore the distinction of twice having been chosen governor of Pennsylvania. He was born at Quince, Pa., Dec. 8, 1840. His father, Henry, Pattison was also a native of Maryland. Governor Pattison's mother, Catherine P. Woodford, was a granddaughter of Colonel Thomas Woodford, a famous Maryland soldier in the Revolution. When Robert Pattison was 6 years old his father was appointed to a church in Philadelphia. He obtained his education in the public schools of that city and graduated from the Central high school, delivering his valedictory address.

In 1869 he entered the law office of Lewis C. Cassiday, one of the most brilliant advocates of the Philadelphia bar and was admitted to the bar in 1872. He had good prospects of success in his profession but he was never inclined to be a politician rather than lawyer. In 1877 he was named as a candidate of the Democratic party for auditor general and on the first ballot in the convention stood next to William P. Schell who was nominated and elected. A few months later Mr. Pattison was the Democratic nominee for controller of Philadelphia. The people were ripe for revolt and he was elected by a majority of 2,000, although the Republican candidates on the state ticket carried the city by 6,000.

Arrangements have been made for the funeral to take place on Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. Services will be conducted at the family residence, Overbrook, by Bishop Neely and Rev. C. W. N. Taylor, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church of the Covenant which Mr. Pattison attended. The interment will be in West Laurel Hill cemetery. The funeral will be private and of a simple character. Telegrams of condolence poured in from all parts of the state and the family received others from distant points before the state funeral.

Among the first received was one from Judge Allen B. Frier, Democratic candidate for president. Judge Parker extended profound regret and extended a message of condolence to the widow and family. Another was received from George W. Guthrie, who was Mr. Pattison's rival in the Democratic ticket of 1902. One of the strongest expressions of sorrow and sympathy came from Colonel James M. Guffey, while ex-governor Stone also expressed his sorrow and extended sympathy to the family.

MINERS WILL NOT STRIKE

An Official Statement to Be Given at Close of Meeting

Seranton, Pa., Aug. 2.—The executive board of the United Mine Workers district No. 2 held a tri-hour session and adjourned until 6 o'clock this morning. District President Nicoll declined to make any statement as to the business transacted excepting that an official statement would be made at the close of the meeting. There will be no strike. That seems assured. Neither the mine workers nor operators desire one at present and it seems rather a question for the mine workers to develop some modus operandi whereby the differences can be overcome. They will probably refer the disputes to the various localities with a request to vote on a proposition which is now under consideration.

President W. L. Connell of the conciliation board has not received a request to call a meeting of the board. President Donnelly of the Hazleton district not having yet acted upon the instructions from the employees of Cove Bros. & Co. Mr. Donnelly was in Seranton but took no part in the meeting. He will await the result of the executive board meeting before making the request to Mr. Connell. C. F. O'Neill, the official mining scale commissioner was in Seranton. He explained that he was here to gather information regarding the dispute in computing on net earnings. Instead of gross earnings. He declared himself satisfied that the result will be even adjusted.

Heldup Near Chicago.
Chicago, Aug. 2.—Roberts last night held up in Illinois Central passenger train between Chicago and Macon, about 25 miles from Chicago. Several passengers were robbed and it is said the one person who resisted was seriously wounded by the robbers. The lands of which there were five had been robbed and all were missing. The man who was wounded was struck on the head with an ax. The train was a special bound for St. Louis with excursionists. Patrick O'Keefe, special agent for the Illinois Central Railroad company and a posse of detectives are in pursuit.
